

Early Childhood, Elementary, Middle School Education

Career Pathways

School of Education

Overview:

Preparation for the classroom, as well as meeting high standards for the facilitation of student learning, comes from a degree in Education. As a teacher some of the major responsibilities include writing lesson plans, facilitating learning through lesson plans, delivering curriculum in an engaging manner, creating assessments that measure learning, making learning relevant, grading student work, and being responsive to various learning styles. Communicating across levels and populations is also essential in speaking with administrators and parents. A degree in Education is also valuable in other work settings such as training and higher education.

Common Pathways:

- Academic Advisor
- Admissions Counselor
- Childcare Worker
- Education Administrator
- Health Educator
- Social and Human Service Assistant
- Teacher (pre-Elementary, middle, high school)
- Teacher Assistant

Please note that some of these pathways require an advanced post bachelor's degree

Common Industries:

- K-121212

First Placement and Internship Sites for Stevenson Students:

- East Middle School
- Essex Elementary School
- Garrison Forest School
- Irvine Nature Center
- Jemicy School
- Jewish Community Center of Greater Baltimore
-